

RUSTLER PICKLE DISH.

"Simpson is very deliberate in his movements." "Yes, it takes him an hour to get a ten-minute walk."

A.—That wasn't nice of you to refuse me the $10 I wanted to borrow; one friend should always help another. B.—Yes; but you always want to be the other.

Simpson—I wonder what kind of a line it is that Budkins uses when he goes fishing. It always breaks just as he is landing the "biggest fish you ever saw." Sniffer—It's nothing but "yarn."

It is just after a man has succeeded in sewing on a button without stabbing his thumb or unthreading the needle that he thinks there is not much need for women, anyway.

Weary Watkins—Wasn't an outrage it is that people has to work so hard. Hungry Higgins—You're talkin' through your hat. If people didn't work where would our grub come from? Eh?

"Look here," said an excited man to a druggist, "you gave me morphine for quinine this morning!" "Is that so?" replied the druggist. "Then you owe me 25 cents. That's the difference in the price."

Prison missionary—To what do you attribute your downfall, to drink? Prisoner—No, to signing the pledge. Missionary—How could that be? Prisoner—No one asked me to drink until I did that.

"What has become of Jones?" "He is living quietly in the suburbs." "Married?" "Yes, and has a baby." "A baby? Then I doubt his living quietly. That word 'quietly' is being overworked these days, I am afraid."

Policeman—I don't see how a little woman like you succeeded in capturing and holding a big burglar like that. Little woman (weakly)—It was dark and I—I thought it was my husband trying to—elope with the servant girl.

She—These flowers are just lovely, but I—mamma thinks it is not right for me to accept such gifts unless—unless we were engaged. He Well, I guess it is a go. These flowers cost $15, and it seems pity to have the money thrown away.

Sharpe—Say, Steele, we can settle the case of Smith vs. Thompson for $150. That's 75 for you and 75 for me. Steele—But how about our client? Where does he come in? Sharpe (impatiently) Oh, give him $10. (Suddenly)—No, promise to give him $10.

It is claimed that John Rockefeller could give every man, woman and child in the United States $2 each and still have left the modest sum of $1,000,000 with which to start a peanut stand. William Waldorf Astor could do the same thing while our own dear Jay Gould could give $1.00 each then have left $8,000,000 with which to sink a well for more water.

Algie—"What an unromantic girl Miss Choteau is! She shocked me terribly last night."

Charlie—"Indeed! How was that?"

Algie—"At parting I asked her for a little kiss, and she said that she came from St. Louis and her mouth wasn't built for little kisses."

"We have a preacher," remarked a second street man to a friend, "who is a terror. He preaches for two hours nearly every time he strikes the pulpit."

"Don't you get frightfully tired?" inquired the friend.

"Not a bit of it. I go to sleep just after he begins and don't know anything about it till it's all over."

"That husband of Mrs. Giffory's is a queer sort of fish. I have an idea he must have a tile loose on his upper story."

"What makes you think that?"

"Why, haven't you noticed? He goes to the springs to take the water every morning; he don't go to any champagne suppers and he has not gone to the races since he's been here."
